ABSTRACT

This book guide is an annotated list of available paperback titles for elementary school children for use by "Reading is FUNdamental" program directors. Some high-interest, low-vocabulary titles suitable for older children as well as special booklists for black, American Indian, and Spanish-speaking children are also included. All books have been given a grade designation for both readability and interest level, but only for general guidance purposes. A complete list of the publishers cited and their addresses is provided. RIF'S GUIDE TO BOOK SELECTION 1973

CS 000 404

READING IS FUNDAMENTAL. SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION. WASHINGTON, D.C. 20560

Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) is a national program that gives children a pleasant incentive to read by letting them choose, from a wide variety of inexpensive, attractive, paperback books, the ones that interest them, and by letting them keep the books as their own.

Most of the children RIF serves have never owned a book.

The national Reading Is Fundamental program, in association with the Smithsonian Institution, sets goals and guidelines, provides program development materials and technical assistance to local RIF projects throughout the United States. But the strength of RIF projects lies in their grass-roots involvement, for each community organizes, develops, funds and runs its own program. Book selection and ordering are done at the local level.

RIF's goal is to show children the range of treasure—now and in the future—that they will find in books. They cannot know what is in them unless they have the books from which to learn.

If America is to grow up thinking, Reading Is Fundamental.

INTRODUCTION

With the rapid growth of Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) throughout the United States, RIF is developing a variety of materials to strengthen and extend the operation of local projects. This 1973 edition of RIF's Book Guide is one of the essential tools for any project. It incorporates and updates the three earlier Book Guides.

The present Guide lists only paperback titles at the elementary school level for obvious reasons: 1) paperback books are less expensive than hardcover books and therefore more children can be served; 2) children like the paperbacks for they are attractive and easy to handle; 3) parents come to know that inexpensive books are available for their children and can begin to build libraries at home, a key factor in making books a way of life.

RIF projects serve principally children from preschool through elementary grades, for it is at the earliest learning ages that enjoyment of reading is more easily instilled in a child. However, for those projects that choose to serve students at the secondary school level, the Book Guide includes a good number of high-interest, low-reading level titles.

There are approximately 1,850 books listed in the Guide. Although books have been graded, this is only as broad guidance, for the interest and pleasure in books vary from child to child, from grade to grade. In actual choice of books, it is the project director's judgment that is key. The director knows the children and their interests, and can best decide which books will have the most appeal.

RIF has had an impact on the publishing world. Publishers are becoming increasingly aware of the need and demand for paperbacks at the juvenile level.

The result is that since Spring 1970, when the first Book Guide was published, 18 publishers have launched new juvenile paperback book lines. This is certainly evident in the 1973 RIF Book Guide.

The Book Guide is a cornerstone of RIF's theory and RIF's success: Let a child choose what interests him; let him keep the book as his own; let his interest develop at his speed.

Introduction to Special Booklist for Ethnic Groups

Of the approximate 1,850 paperback titles included in this Book Guide, only about 550 appear in the Special Booklist for Ethnic Groups. This is an increase of only 150 paperback titles from the 400 listed in our three earlier Book Guides—not as substantial an increase as we had hoped.

Literature plays an important role in contributing to a child's self-image. For Mexican-American, Puerto Rican, American Indian, Appalachian, and Black urban and rural children there are still far too few inexpensive paperbacks published to serve this vitally important role.

Although a number of Spanish-language books are listed in the Guide, they are limited mainly to books published in this country. A few Spanish-language bibliographies that contain titles published by both U.S. and foreign publishers are included under our List of Sources Used.

For those persons interested in the purchase of Spanish-language books for children, many of which are published in other countries, write:

Martha V. Tome, Director
Proyecto Leer
Organization of American States
Washington, D.C. 20006

Two objectives of the above organization are: one, to evaluate and list material in Spanish for K to 12 Grade reading levels; two, to help make those books available through distributors in this country.

A few distributors have been recommended to RIF by Spanish-language programs, including the RIF project conducted with the Los Angeles public schools. Catalogues are available from the following:

Heffernan Supply Co., Inc.
P.O. Box 5309
San Antonio, Texas 78201

Latin American Productions
P.O. Box 41017
Los Angeles, California 90041

Hispanic American Publications, Inc.
252 East 51st Street
New York, New York 10022

Mrs. Leyla Cattan, U.S. Representative
Librolandia Distribudoria de Libros (Mexico)
9210 E. Calle Cascada
Tucson, Arizona

Arhe, Inc.
405 Fifth Avenue
Room 1402
New York, New York 10017

Santillana Publishing Company, Inc.
575 Lexington Avenue
New York, New York 10022

RIF shall continue its search for sources of paperback titles for minority group children. Any relevant information would be appreciated by the Editor of the RIF Book Guide.

With the increasing demand for ethnic books for children, a number of good titles are being published in expensive hardbound editions. To make these books easily available and accessible to millions of minority group children, they should be published in paperback.

It is the hope of National RIF that the impact of increased demand will encourage publishers to add many more more ethnic titles to their paperback editions. It is also RIF's hope that publishers will increasingly seek out the authors who can best write the books that will be most successful in contributing to the self-image of children of minority groups.
